The Orphan's Prayer

M. G. Lewis

Harriett Abrams

OpenScore (CC0)

OpenScore (CC0)

3rd Verse
33
Per-haps you think my lips dis - sem-bling of vir - tuous sor-rows feign a p 36
tale, then mark my frame with an - guish trem-bling, my hol - low eyes, and fea ___ tures 40
3
pale, E'en should my sto - ry prove I ___ deal too well these was-ted limbs ___ de - 44
clare my wants at least are not un - re - al then Stran-ger grant the Or-phan's prayer.
p

OpenScore (CC0)

5th Verse
65
But thou proud Man the Beg-gar scorn-ing un-moved who saw'st me kneel for f 68
bread, thy heart shall ache to hear at morn-ing that morn-ing found the Beg - gar 72
3
dead and when the room re - sounds with laugh-ter my fam-ish'd cry thy mirth shall 76
scare and of-ten shalt thou wish hear - af - ter thou hadst not scorned the Or-phan's prayer.