They sit on the banks where the bright flowers gleam,
And they dream not of toil or pain;
For they've drank of the fount with the golden stream;
They have drank — and are young again.
And they bade me speed with my glittering wing,
From the realm of the nightless day,
To the dim old groves where they loved to sing,
And thus to the mourning say:

We tune our harps by the bright blue streams,
That lave on a gem-clad shore;
And our lives are as sweet as an infant's dreams,
And we sigh not, nor weep we more.
We watch ye friends, when the night-winds breath
Lies hushed over moor and hill;
For love extends past the bourne of death —
We have loved, and we love ye still.

We are there unseen, by the home fire's blaze,
As our tales ye repeat again,
When ye sing the song of other days —
We are there, and we bless ye then.
And we hover o'er when the hour of prayer
Comes on, at the close of even —
Midst the hallowed family band, we're there,
And we bear those prayers to heaven.
